COOLIDGE BEING NOTIFIED OF HIS NOMINATION TODAY

NORTHAMPTON, MASSACHUSETTS. HIS HOME TOWN, IS BEDECKED IN GALA ATTIRE TO WELCOME VISITORS

(United Press)
Northampton, Mass., July 27.—Northampton—hair slicked down and shoes shined—was ready early today for ceremonies notifying Governor Calvin Coolidge that he had been selected by the republican party as its vice presidential candidate.

Roads leading here were jammed early. Before sun up a parade of farm wagons, jitneys, limousines and touring cars began bumping along the roadways.

Governor Coolidge, tanned and fit, after a recent vacation in Vermont, arose early to care for his day's program.

He spent the morning in polishing the prongs in his acceptance speech.

Early arrivals occupied themselves visiting the Coolidge home—a modest two family house on a quiet street with the other half tenanted by a college professor. The streets were filled before nine o'clock and the Coolidge headquarters with a mass of waving red, white and blue bunting was the center of much interest.

A band stationed along the main street began playing national airs. Sen. Henry Cabot Lodge was one of the first to step from a special train, which brought prominent republicans from Boston. With Senator Lodge were nearly two hundred republicans, among whom were Lieut. Governor Channing Cox, Governor Milliken of Maine, Governor Bartlett of New Hampshire and others.

From Vermont, Coolidge's birth state came grizzled farmers. Many came from the vicinity of Plymouth where Coolidge worked on the family homestead as a boy.

15,000 People Witness Ceremony

Allenfield, Northampton, Mass., July 27.—They broke the news to "Cal" today.

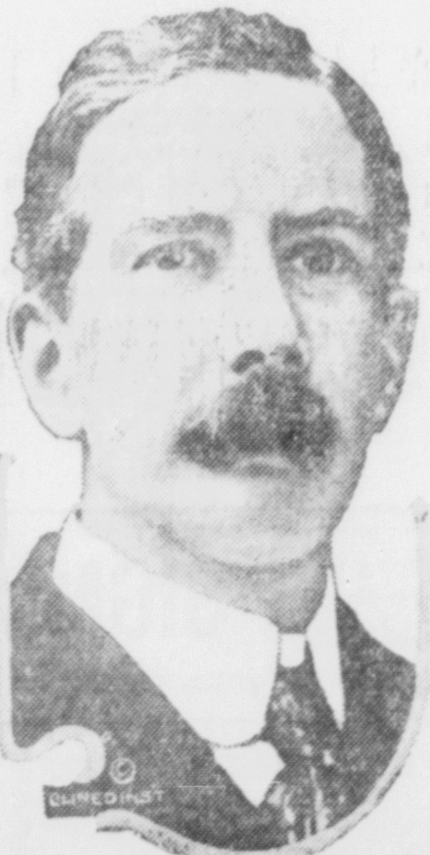

On a little platform standing in the center of a great natural theatre from which more than fifteen thousand admirers looked on while Governor Calvin Coolidge of Massachusetts was formally notified of his nomination as republican vice presidential candidate.

With the unbroken blue of the sky for a canopy and the green grass for carpet the stage was set for the ceremonies that marked the greatest day in Calvin Coolidge's life.

Governor Edwin Morrow, of Kentucky, made the address of notification. Dr. Clark Seelye, president emeritus of Smith college, who is eighty-three years old, presided.

William J. Fitzgerald, mayor of Northampton and democrat, made the address of welcome for the "home folks". The invocation was delivered by Rev. Kenneth Wells, of the Edward church which the family attends.

WILSON SIDESTEPS SETTLING BOUNDARY

SUGGESTS AN INTERNATIONAL COMMISSION TO DETERMINE THE POLISH-SLOVAK BOUNDARY

(By United Press)
Paris, July 27.—The French foreign office today gave the United Press the following official statement regarding President Wilson's communication to settle the Teschen boundary dispute between Poland and Czechoslovakia:

"President Wilson's communication said he thought the present method of solving the Teschen dispute had been imposed upon the Poles and Czechoslovakia against their will. Therefore he suggested that the council of ambassadors take only provisional action regarding the matter and leave the final adjustment to an international commission.

The council of ambassadors, in replying, pointed out that President Wilson was misinformed regarding the attitude of the Poles and Czechoslovakia, who had voluntarily endorsed the plan of the council of ambassadors. Attention was called to the difficulty of changing procedures now when solution is apparently near.

The council of premiers met today to discuss the Teschen question. The conference adjourned without a decision.

GOES TO IDENTIFY TRUNK VICTIM

(United Press)

Detroit, Mich., July 27.—Mrs. Marie Trumbull, intimate friend of Mrs. Katherine Jackson Leroy, was enroute to New York city today to attempt identification of the trunk victim expressed from here to New York city.

Hats Worth Small Fortunes.

Hats were designed primarily by the ancient peoples for protection, and through the evolution of the centuries new generations have failed to improve upon the ancient types that exist in various climates to prevent exposure either to extreme heat or cold. The sub-arctic people from the frozen tundras wear a snugly-fitting bonnet with earflaps. In India the turban is worn to protect the head against excessive heat, says Asia Magazine. These turbans are made from cloth, 20 to 40 feet long, and wound about the head in endless variety, according to rank and taste. The natives of the Philippines and the South Sea islands wear large sun hats, usually made of palm leaves. In China, in addition to the large, peaked coiffe hat, one finds a hat which is emblematic of rank. The social position of a Manchu woman can always be determined by the ornaments on her bonnet, often consisting of precious jewels. Some of these hats cost as much as $10,000. In various climates and countries natives utilize ornaments they secure from birds and game to make their hats attractive.

MINERS' STRIKE THREATENS THE NATION'S INDUSTRY

COAL OPERATOR PREDICTS THAT TEN DAYS OF STRIKES WILL PARALYZE THE COUNTRY

(By United Press)

Chicago, July 27.—Starving for coal, the nation's industries will lapse into unconsciousness before another ten days of unauthorized strikes of coal miners, E. C. Searles, president of the Illinois Coal Operators association predicted unreservedly today.

Operators of Illinois, Indiana and Kansas mines say the strike threatens "the most serious situation in the country industrially."

Reports early today indicated the strike was spreading. Further defections in Indiana and Kansas mines were reported. Iowa miners expect to confer tomorrow with operators in hopes of securing wage advances and forestall a strike. Authorities declared the strike was sweeping eastward and anticipated it would break into flood volumes before the week end. The available supply ranges from two to ten days, Searles said.

POLISH-RUSSIAN ARMISTICE NEGOTIATIONS BEGIN FRIDAY

(By United Press)

London, July 27.—Russian-Polish armistice negotiations will begin Friday at Baranovitchi in the province of Grodno between Minsj and Pinsj, a Moscow wireless today announced. Hostilities will cease immediately upon the opening of negotiations, the dispatch said.

Warsaw dispatches said the Polish armistice commission had left to meet bolshevik field commanders without knowing where or what date the negotiations were to be conducted.

The armistice line will run along the general line fixed by the allies at Spa.

Premier Lloyd George has left Hythe for Boulogne where he will confer with Premier Millerand, Marshal Foch and other French military and government officials regarding the Russian-Polish situation. It was believed this conference might result in a partial approval of the Russian soviet government without granting formal political recognition.

HARDING QUILTS PLAYING GOLF

WILL STOP FAVORITE RECREATION BECAUSE OF A LACK OF TIME

(United Press Staff Correspondent)

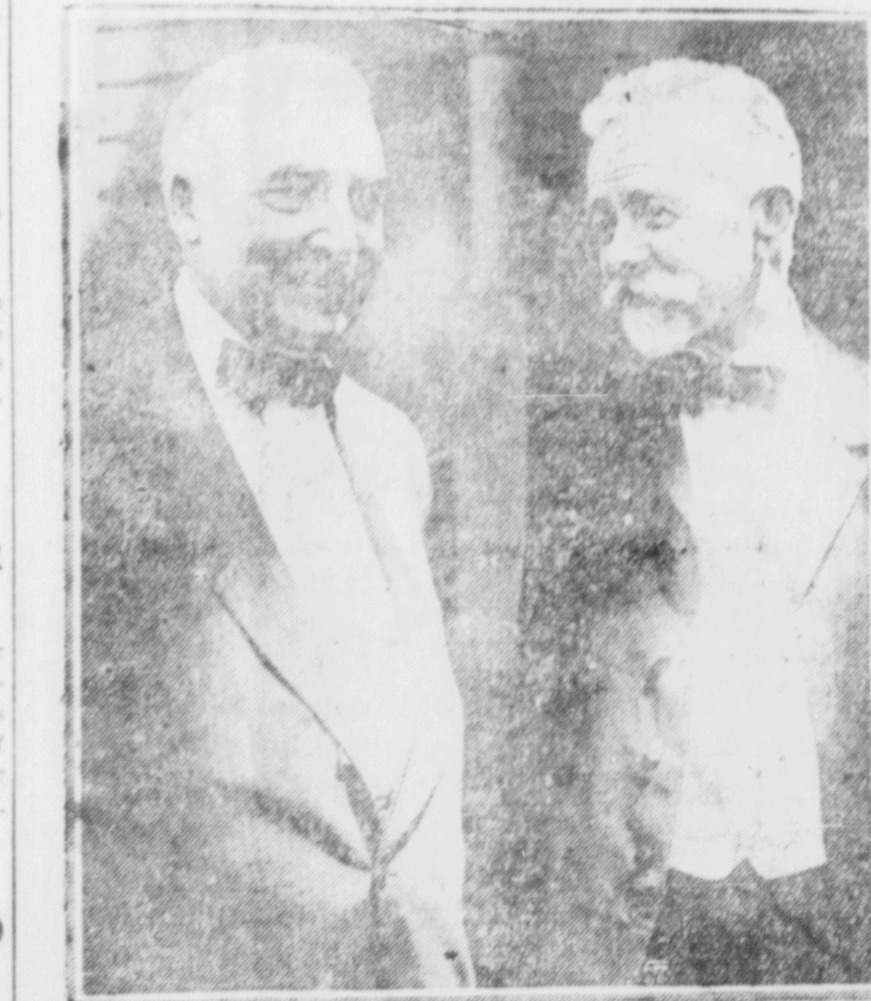

Marion, Ohio, July 27.—Senator Warren G. Harding is considering abandoning his favorite recreation of golf altogether or at least for the present, it was learned today.

Only the need of exercise and relaxation has kept him at the game recently, it was said. Press work and the inaccessibility of the golf grounds near Marion have led the candidate to abandoning his frequent trips to the links.

Senator Harding retired from the spotlight today to give the stage to his running mate, Governor Calvin Coolidge of Massachusetts, whose notification ceremonies will be held at Northampton today.

The republican presidential nominee sent a personal representative to the Coolidge notification ceremonies.

BOULOGNE CONFERENCE IS MOST IMPORTANT

(By United Press)

Paris, July 27.—The conference between French officials and Premier Lloyd George at Boulogne today is the most important since the original armistice conference with Germany, in the opinion of diplomatic officials and newspapers today. It was declared the question of universal peace depends upon the outcome of today's meeting.

Leo Martin declared the Russian problem can not be definitely solved without cooperation of the United States.

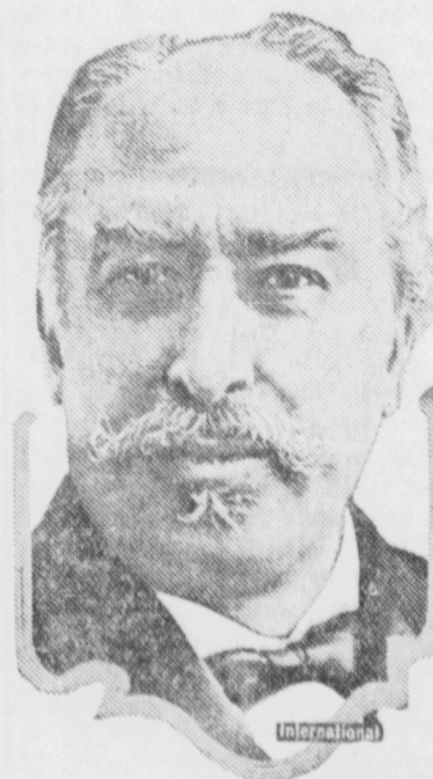

Premier Millerand in the conference will seek to obtain Lloyd George's approval of the plan evolved by French and Belgium to grant Germany the financial advance promised at Spa by a loan to be floated by the allied reparation commission. It was said officially today.

AGAINST CITY ORDINANCE IN KANSAS CITY PRESCRIBING GRADE

(By United Press)

Kansas City, Mo., July 27.—Missouri milk companies today grabbed labor's weapon and struck against enforcement of a city ordinance prescribing grades of milk to be sold.

The city was without milk when the farmers refused to send their wagons on the route.

The companies said they took the action when the city officials announced much of the milk described as "grade A" was below standard. They claim they were unable to deliver a better grade.

RACE DELAYED—LACK OF WIND

(By United Press)

Aboard the United States Destroyer, Goldsborough by wireless to the United Press, July 27.—The start of the fifth race of the international yachting series was again delayed today because of lack of wind.

Half hour before the starting signal the committee boat again hoisted the delay signal. Hardly a breath of air was stirring.

At noon there was no air stirring at Ambrose lightship, the starting point, the yachts laid dormant with the canvas flapping. There wasn't enough breeze to string out the postponement flag.

Yachts Start—Shamrock Leads

The actual time of starting was 2:17 p. m. The breeze had freshened. At 2:37 the Shamrock was leading by a quarter of a mile. At 3:30 the yachts had covered about half of the first leg with the Shamrock still holding her slight lead.

DECLINED THE PRESIDENCY OF NATIONAL FEDERATION

(United Press)

St. Paul, July 27.—Mrs. Lena M. Phillips, of New York, today declined to become a candidate for national president of the national federation of business and professional women clubs in their annual convention here. Nearly every woman on the floor took part in the demonstration demanding her election, but she refused.

The convention opened shortly before noon with welcome speeches and responses. As executive secretary of the federation Mrs. Phillips made a brief speech. Then clamor for her election was started.

Other officials including Miss Gail Laughlin, president, gave their annual report. Miss Laughlin's report was extemporaneous.

Speeches were scheduled for this afternoon.

The Older Word Preferable.

Reporting a fire the other day a New York paper said: "A shirt in the wind prevented the entire plant from being destroyed." As "shirt" and the word intended are both defined in the dictionary as "an undergarment for the body," the error wasn't such a bad one. —Boston Transcript.

EXPLORE RED RIVER VALLEY

Scientific Expedition to Make Search for the Bones of Reptiles of Prehistoric Era.

Another expedition to look for the bones of great prehistoric reptiles in the Red River valley of Alberta is on its way. This time it is under the direction of Dr. W. A. Parks of the University of Toronto, and the Royal Ontario museum. For a number of years these expeditions have been an annual summer journey for three months.

Two years ago the almost perfect specimen of the kritosaurus incurvimanus, which has just been finally chipped free from the rock and presented to the museum, was found, making a distinct addition to the records of science, and giving to Toronto the only specimen of this species yet discovered. Three incomplete skeletons of the kritosaurus and a great horned head of a brontosaurus, 4 feet 6 inches in length, were found by the professor, but have not yet been carved from the rock. It is the hope of Prof. Parks to collect ultimately for the Royal Ontario museum one of the finest exhibits of dinosaurs in existence.

The locality and the method of finding the specimens are described by Prof. Parks. "The river cut right through the flat prairie to a depth of 400 feet, forming a whole lot of broken buttes, and it is among these that the bones are discovered. One of the difficulties in obtaining complete specimens is that the bones cannot be obtained until they are partly exposed by the action of natural degrading causes. Sometimes you are disappointed then, for after exploring you may find only a single bone. You dig down as close as you can and pack the rock in plaster paris for shipment."

The Red River valley 3,000,000 years ago was near the coast of a great inland sea that stretched from the Gulf of Mexico to the Arctic ocean. "The sand along the shallow, brackish shores of this great body of water formed a splendid preservative for those huge reptiles which inhabited the world at that time. Our kritosaurus was found in what we call the Bell formation of the upper Cretaceous system," explained Prof. Parks.

IN ODD MISHAPS

Many and Varied Accidents Befall Humanity.

Files of Insurance Companies Are Full of Cases Where Injuries Have Been the Result of Most Trivial Happenings.

Accident insurance, or insurance which pays benefits in case of temporary disability, is carried by a great many people. The claim agent whose business it is to investigate reported injuries often meets with amusing incidents. The following were furnished by an agent of a large insurance company:

"Some captive rattlesnakes in a restaurant escaped from a box in which they were confined and so frightened one of the patrons that in his haste to get out he fell in front of me, and in getting up, came up underneath me, tossing me over his head."

"I was in bed and dreamed that a burglar was bending over me. I struck at him so hard that I was thrown on the floor with arm extended and broke my collarbone."

"Assisting a lady who had an umbrella under her arm, to board a car, the point of the umbrella was thrust into my left eye."

"I placed an electric fan beside my bed on a hot night. While asleep I struck my foot in it."

"In a playful mood I kicked at my wife while barefooted and accidentally struck her on the knee, thereby spraining the big toe of my left foot."

"My arm encircled the neck of a young lady. I suddenly withdrew it and the thumb of my left hand came in contact with a brooch, penetrating the thumb almost to the bone."

"My wife was curling her hair. I ran against her and the hair curler struck my eye."

"I was embraced by a friend who playfully said that he could make me cry—fractured my rib."

"On a private yacht, I had just had a highball, got up, the boat gave a lurch and I sat down on the glass."

"Looking for a leak in a natural gas pipe with a lighted match—explosion followed."

"I missed my train and while walking on the country road I fell over a cow lying in the road. As I fell the cow got up, striking me and also stepping on my foot."

"Sitting in a chair in a barber shop and billiard parlor, a ball from a pool table nearby struck me on the nose, breaking nose and injuring one eye."

"I had been talking with another man, and as I started to walk along didn't notice a woman had pushed a baby carriage directly in front of me—fell over it."

"I was going down the walk in front of my house when an automobile wheel had come off two blocks away rolled down the hill and struck me, fracturing both bones of the right leg."

"I was riding in an automobile when it struck a hole in the road, causing my teeth to come together with such force that the lower jaw was fractured."

"I was looking for burglars, and was accidentally mistaken by one of my neighbors for the man we were looking for, and he shot me in the arm."

Another "Dickens Original."

One by one the little band of remaining "Dickens originals" are being gathered to their fathers. The London Morning Post chronicles the death in Strood infirmary of Mrs. Regden, the Betty Higden of "Our Mutual Friend." She was one of the lesser characters of the great novelist's creation, but as Gilbert Chesterton so truly says: "Dickens not only conquered the world; he conquered it with minor characters. They appear only for a fragment of time, but they belong to eternity. We have them only for an instant (like the young man with the lumpy forehead, who only says 'Esker' to Mr. Podsnap's foreign gentleman), but they have us forever." How great Dickens really was is seen from the fact that not more than one or two men have been found capable of creating even a single character in their books of equal vitality and individuality. Perhaps the two most outstanding instances are Sherlock Holmes and Captain Kettle. But where Conan Doyle and Cuthbert Hynes created one famous character of that discipline Dickens created fifty.

Irish Police Hunt Illegal Stills.

Enormously increased prices of spirits in Ireland, due to the heavy taxation on them, have led to the widespread manufacture of potent, a very strong home-made product that dodges the excise man. The police hunt for illegal stills, like all other normal police activities, has been hampered by the fact that the chief job of the Irish police has been to protect themselves from attack. So the Sinn Feiners who have taken over the task of punishing thieves have added to their function the capture of illegal still.

Dust Rolled Out of the Carpet.

For cleaning carpets, very satisfactory results have been obtained from a big open-work drum of wood which is turned by a gasoline engine. The carpets to be treated are placed inside and the drum turned and after about 20 minutes of this the carpets are thoroughly cleaned and are none the worse for treatment. The beating process is sometimes disastrous to carpets which are well worn, but this rolling process does them no injury.

Last year the Cincinnati Reds couldn't get runs behind Jimmy Ring and he had to pitch a shutout to win. This spring the Reds have generally had great batting bees when Ring was pitching for them.

The pitcher who uses the spitball this year evidently figures it is his last time on earth and he might as well keep on fiddling while Rome burns, getting what satisfaction he can out of the music he makes.

"Divorce" Among Birds.

Our little feathered friends took a tumble in the estimation of their admirers, who have cited them as models of "mates for life."

"Divorces" have been discovered in birdland! The biological survey, Department of Agriculture, is responsible for this new blow at the sanctity of the marriage vows.

"Bird divorces," it says, first were suggested by information obtained from a Cleveland bird lover, the first user of trapping methods adopted by the biological survey.

"He found," says the announcement, "that in one case, at least, a retrapped bird had remated (though the former mate still was alive) and was rearing a brood with its new mate, just as it had done with its first love."

The extent to which birds "divorce" themselves from their mates and start on new material careers is one of the sidelights which will be developed in new studies now under way.—Washington Star.

Claiming Only Her Due.

"The prima donna says she is misunderstood." "How so?" "One of the local newspapers credited her with having had five husbands." "Well, if she hasn't been married that many times, it seems to me that it's a mistake in figures, not a misunderstanding of the lady in herself." "No. She says the statement that she has had five husbands makes it appear as if she were temperamental and regarded the marriage vow lightly, when as a matter of fact she has had only four husbands."—Birmingham Age-Herald.

French Pension Laws.

France has a law which provides for a minimum retirement pension of 1,800 francs for each male employee who shall have reached the age of sixty years and been thirty years in the state service, 1,500 francs for each female employee who shall have reached the age of fifty-five years and been thirty years in the state service, in any of the following branches: Manufacture of tobacco and matches, state warehouses for manufactured goods in transit, general bureaus of printing and engraving, bureaus of posts and telegraphs and of mints and medals, military establishments under the supervision of the minister of war and industrial reconstruction, and arsenals and naval establishments, subject to the regulations concerning premium payments into the national old-age retirement fund, and in consideration of which a pension shall have been or will be payable at a date subsequent to December 31, 1918.

Supercillious.

The adjective supercilious is of Latin derivation, and it illustrates how a word first used in a figurative sense often takes on a matter of fact meaning and its origin in common use is lost sight of. In Latin supercilium is the word for eyebrow, and that Latin word is still used in works on anatomy. It is also used in architecture for certain ornaments over a door and for a small fillet at the base of a column in Ionic style. The adjective supercilious is derived from the Latin noun, supercilium. The adjective means exhibiting haughty and careless contempt as by an elevation of the eyebrows, therefore, insolently proud, arrogant, overbearing.

Proposed Political Labor Party.

The formation of a dual economic and political working agreement of the United Mine Workers of America and the transportation brotherhoods was discussed in a preliminary conference in Cleveland between three members of the miners' executive committee and the executives of the brotherhoods.

The conference was the result of the action of the miners' convention last September, when a resolution was adopted proposing an alliance with the brotherhoods to further the interests of both bodies.

The proposal contemplates the handling of the railroad workers and the miners to work for objects of common interest, such as betterment of working conditions and labor legislation.

The proposed dual alliance is modeled after labor's triple alliance in England, where the miners, the railroad and the transport workers are banded in a co-operative agreement.

The matter will be taken up again at a later meeting. If the alliance is carried through it will mean the formation of a labor entente, composing the largest body of workers in the country. It might definitely upset the balance of control within the American Federation of Labor and probably would result, according to labor observers, in throwing leadership of American labor affairs into the hands of the railroad unions.

Fragrance of Rosewood.

Rosewood, the commercial name applied to a beautiful wood used for ornamental furniture, derives its name from the fact that when the tree is cut the fresh wood possesses a strong rose-like fragrance.

INACTIVITY IN MANY LINES

Report Made by Federal Reserve Bank for June Shows Situation to Be Unfavorable.

Much unemployment exists among the workers in the clothing and textile industries, according to the report of the Federal Reserve bank for June, the New York World states. In some cloak and suit factories 70 per cent of the operators are not at work. Inactivity is usual at this season of the year, but it is now exceptionally extensive.

During the last few years only 39 to 40 per cent have been laid off during the dull season. Practically all the fur makers in New York city are on strike, and it is estimated that 10,000 are out.

In contrast to the preceding is the increased activity in the building trades. It is estimated that a month ago only about 75 per cent of the men were working, but now the percentage has been increased to 98. There is a shortage of several hundred housewreckers.

There is a shortage of unskilled workers. The supply of immigrant labor is below the demand, and there is a shortage of farm help.

According to the state industrial commission the average weekly earnings were $28.45 during May, an increase of 65 cents over the average for April, and the highest report so far. The most marked increases were in metal work, machinery, railroad repair shops, shipbuilding and furniture.

The greatest decreases were in men and women's clothing and in fur and fur goods. It is probable that part of the increases were due to the laying off of the less competent workers, whose lower earnings reduced the average.

Many woolen mills and silk mills are shut down and are running only part time. Boot and shoe dealers are feeling the generally dull market. Wool prices have declined and consumption is at a low ebb. Retail trade received a strong stimulus for a while from the wave of price reduction and the huge volume of advertising, but it has again relapsed into dullness, the consumer having returned to his waiting attitude in the hope of further price cutting, but extravagance is still in evidence. The demand for automobiles, particularly the lower priced cars, has held up fairly well. June has revealed dullness in the jewelry trade.

German Coal Production.

In the year 1913, the production of coal in Germany was 175,000,000 tons. Under the peace treaty Germany has lost about 35 per cent of its coal producing territory: Alsace-Lorraine and the Saar regions with 16,000,000 tons, Upper Silesia with 41,000,000 tons, and the occupied territory with 3,000,000 tons. In addition to this, Germany must, under the terms of the peace treaty, deliver from 31,000,000 to 39,000,000 tons of coal each year to the allies. The coal miners under the new regime in Germany have a seven-hour day, but in view of the present crisis, they have agreed to work two half shifts extra each week at double pay, thus making a 49-hour week.

Indians Once Lived in Spain.

That the remote ancestors of the American Indians may have lived in Spain in prehistoric days is indicated by some very remarkable discoveries of rock paintings that archeologists have made at El Bosque, in the hilly country north of Alpera, a Spanish town about half way between Albesete, situated in the plains of La Mancha, and Alicante, on the Mediterranean. Anthropologists also say that these discoveries throw a fresh light upon the life of prehistoric man in southwestern Europe during the Magdalenian period of the great ice age. These Palaeolithic tribes, when not compelled by the vigor of the climate to find their dwelling in caverns where they obtained protection against both the intense cold and the attacks of ferocious animals, lived under rock shelters on the sides of valleys.—Detroit News.

Going Into Debt to Save.

One of our advertisers frequently uses this slogan in his appeals for business: Go into debt to save. It is excellent advice. Many people have such a horror of debt that they do not differentiate between kinds of debt, but try to avoid them all. Debts incurred for running expenses mean living beyond one's income and, while sometimes necessary in emergencies, are deplorable and not to be contracted except in cases of dire necessity. But going into debt for the purpose of making conservative investments is a wise policy, is the belief of the Ohio State Journal.

Such debts get a man started right and provide him with that very important aid in saving a positive and definite incentive. If he buys a bond, paying part down and binding himself to pay the balance in specified installments at regular intervals, he is not likely to go back on his agreement. Under such an arrangement he is more likely to save a certain sum each month than if he were merely trying to save it under no obligation to anyone but himself. It helps him stick to a good habit. Going into debt to save is a step toward independence.

Pharaoh's Throne in Philadelphia.

Part of the palace to which the Pharaoh Merneptah summoned Moses and Aaron to order the Israelites out of Egypt more than 3,000 years ago is to become a permanent exhibit of the University of Pennsylvania, in Philadelphia.

The palace was discovered under the sands of centuries by Dr. Clarence S. Fisher, world famous archeologist, who has just returned after six years in the field for the University museum. It was located at the site of ancient Memphis, not far from the mouth of the Nile.

The sections of the palace obtained include the raised dais on which stood Merneptah's throne, with the steps at the sides and a ramp in front, on which, in all probability, the two patriarchs of the Old Testament stood after the plagues and heard the order to lead their people from bondage.

Wireless for Shipwrecked.

However well equipped with wireless a ship may be, an accident that results in its sinking puts an end to its distress signals, and may not even allow time to begin them, leaving its hurriedly manned lifeboats without any means of communication with each other or with a rescue ship. An eastern inventor has designed a simple and compact radio system intended as permanent equipment for one or more lifeboats on each vessel, says Popular Mechanics Magazine. The wireless apparatus, used for both telegraphing and telephoning, is enclosed in a water-tight box at the stern, and grounded through a metal plate on the bottom of the boat. To shut out extraneous sounds and add to the sensitivity of the set, the operator is equipped with a helmet containing the telephone receivers.

THE RAILROAD WAGE AWARD

Railroad employees seem less discontented with the amount of their wage increases, which average about half what they asked for, than with the Labor board's discrimination among the various unions. The critics insist that the raise ought to have been more nearly uniform. The groups given less than the average increase are jealous of those that are given more. Thus their quarrel seems to be less with the government than with each other.

This attitude is natural enough. The human nature being what it is. The disgruntled unions, however, should do their best to take the settlement philosophically, and to appreciate the reasons given by the board for this discrimination. It is evident that, in general, the Board has given the biggest increases to those classes of employment who were most poorly paid. To an outsider, at least, this looks like the essence of simple human justice. And he is said to the credit of some of the most highly paid groups that they have acquiesced in this principle.

Fortunately the prospect is that the award will be accepted in spite of this dissatisfaction. The railroad unions had determined, before hand, to stand together in its acceptance or rejection. The strongest of the brotherhoods have promptly decided to accept. Most of the others will probably do the same when their referendum is taken, in hope of another raise next year if the cost of living does not fall. There will not be any strike, then, unless a small minority should go back on their pledge and start an "outlaw strike". There is probably enough good sense among the leaders to prevent such a desperate and suicidal step as that. The experience of the striking switchmen has not been encouraging to "outlaws."

FEW ENTER "DISMAL SWAMP"

Forbidding Tegen in Virginia and North Carolina Extends No Hospitable Hand to Visitors.

The name "Dismal Swamp" is a byword everywhere, and a legend has grown up around it of a dreary, boggy, unknown region of snakes and dark, damp thickets, where runaway slaves fled for refuge. This region is but little better known today than it was when George Washington himself laid out a route through it.

The swamp is old historically. The first settlers at Norfolk and the region round about knew of it as a wild, impassable bit of country full of game and of valuable timber—cypress, so good for making shingles; juniper, black gum and beech. In 1728 Col. Byrd, while trying to establish the boundary line between Virginia and North Carolina, ran a survey across it, working with the greatest difficulty and making only a mile a day through the thick growth. He it was who named it the Dismal swamp.

Later surveys and government maps show that the wilderness contains about 800 square miles of wood and water lying in a tract twenty miles wide and forty-five long, and extending twenty miles into Virginia and twenty-five into North Carolina. The soil is a sort of rich black vegetable mold, dry and cakey at some seasons, and saturated with water at others.

The whole region is like a huge sponge, alternately dry and wet, and as the swamp level, curiously enough, is twenty feet above tide water, it is the source of many rivers and streams.

There are deer in the woods, but it is the wild cattle that give the best sport. The ancestors of these "reed-fed" cattle, as they are called, strayed in from the fields and took up their abode in the swamp. The result is a race of small, active, wild cattle, the flesh of which is a delicious combination of the qualities of wild game and tame animals.

There is a chance that before many years the greater part of the swamp will be reclaimed from its present wilderness into civilized farm land, but it will be many years before the bear and wild cattle and noxious snakes disappear from their refuges, and before the rare plants and birds that still draw botanists and ornithologists from all parts of the country will be found only in museum show cases.

QUARREL WITH JAPAN LOOMING

CALIFORNIA MAY ADOPT DISCRIMINATORY LEGISLATION IN NOVEMBER.

LAND OWNERSHIP THE ISSUE

Coast People Say Number of Orientals There is Increasing and That the Gentlemen's Agreement Is Being Violated.

By JAMES P. HORNADAY.

Washington.—A diplomatic controversy between the United States and Japan is threatened because of the possibility of discriminatory legislation by the state of California against the Japanese residents.

Alredy Bainbridge Colby, secretary of state, has received representations from the Japanese ambassador here, and these are known to have been purely informal and only intended to direct the attention of the United States government to the California situation. Legislation which it is proposed will be submitted to a popular referendum at the California election in November involves the issue whether the Japanese shall be permitted to own land in that state.

Five separate propositions, each of which hinges on land ownership, are included in California proposals. First, it is proposed to prohibit land ownership by the Japanese; second, to prohibit American-born Japanese minors from acquiring real estate; third, to prohibit the Japanese from leasing any land; fourth, to prohibit the Japanese parents from being guardians of their children's property; and fifth, to prohibit the Japanese from owning interest in corporations holding land.

Gentlemen's Agreement Violated? Official Washington well understands that the United States government can take no legal action, except to suggest to the California state officials that no legislation should be enacted to offend Japan. Violation on the part of the state of the so-called gentlemen's agreement between this country and Japan might lead to difficulties between the two governments. The gentlemen's agreement, made in 1907, provides for the control by Japan of Japanese immigration to this country, but the Californians claim that it is being violated in spirit by the Tokyo government and that the influx of Japanese, with lower standards of living and incessant work, is a menace to the native Americans. Under the gentlemen's agreement, Japan agreed to issue passports to her laborers to enter territories contiguous to the United States, and she also recognized the right of the United States to deny entry to this country of Japanese laborers whose passports did not include the continental United States. Further, Japan agreed to issue passports to this country to Japanese of the following classes: Travelers, business and professional men, students and skilled workers; laborers and nonlaborers who had before 1907 lived in the United States; and Japanese who had acquired farms in the United States and wished to return to this country to take active charge of their property.

Effort to obtain official and accurate data on the Japanese question on the Pacific coast is now being made by the immigration committee of the house of representatives. Headed by Congressman Albert Johnson of Washington, the committee is conducting its investigations, including public hearings in California, attention being centered in that state because of the proposed discriminatory state legislation.

Picture Bride Problem.

Californians assert that the Japanese population in their state is increasing at an alarming rate, but this is denied by the Japanese, who assert their increase since 1907 has been about 10,000. The picture bride, critics of the Japanese say, is a violation of the gentlemen's agreement because as soon as she arrives in this country she becomes a laborer, besides rearing children. The Japanese claim the picture bride follows the usual custom of their land, the parents of the couple arranging the marriage, and the exchange of photographs is a matter of identification and convenience of the contracting parties when they meet at an American port. The Japanese also say that a legal ceremony is performed in this country.

The picture bride problem is expected to end this fall, for the Tokyo government has agreed to issue no more passports to them. However, the last of the outstanding passports do not expire until fall, so arrivals of the picture brides may be expected to continue until that time. The greatest number of picture brides to arrive in this country any one year was in 1918 when a few more than 4,000 were landed.

There is as yet no official indication of what attitude the federal government will take toward the proposed California legislation. The house committee, of course, cannot deal with California directly, its possible field of action being in the direction of federal legislation such as establishing a more strict patrol of the Mexican border.

FORMER MASTER MECHANIC HERE

W. H. Lewis of Roanoke, Va., Meets Old Friend Here, Tim Brady and James Gardner

LEWIS HERE FROM 1873-1875

Was Succeeded by A. P. Farrar—Lewis Famed as a Car Shop Builder and Designer

W. H. Lewis of Roanoke, Va., is a visitor in Brainerd. He was general master mechanic in Brainerd from 1873 to 1875 at the Northern Pacific railway shops and succeeded by the late A. P. Farrar.

Coming in the early days, he was a pioneer of the Northern Pacific railway. After leaving here, he was connected with the Union Pacific railroad four years and later was connected with the building of the Oregon Short Line railroad, being in charge of the motive department. On completion of this road to the Oregon line, Mr. Lewis accepted the position of master mechanic on the Nickel Plate road with headquarters in Chicago. After four years' service with this company, he was for eight years master mechanic on the Chicago, Burlington & Quincy railroad with headquarters in LaCrosse, Wis. He left the service of this company to accept the position of superintendent of motive power with the Norfolk & Western railway with headquarters at Roanoke, Va., where he constructed the most complete railroad shops in the United States.

He was the pioneer designer and constructor of the first 100 ton capacity cars, also the largest locomotives in this country. During the federal administration of railroads he was appointed one of the committee to design the standard locomotives and cars of the United States government.

Mr. Lewis has received honorable recognition in the mechanical world, having been elected president of the Western railroad of Chicago, president of the American Railway Master Mechanics Association and delegate to the International Railway congress held at Berne, Switzerland in 1910.

Mr. Lewis at his own request was retired from the service of the Norfolk & Western railway with a liberal pension and is now enjoying his well earned rest and recreation after a continuous service on railroads for the past 55 years, and is spending a few days in Brainerd renewing the friendship and associations of his early experiences in this city. While most of his old friends have passed over the Great Divide, he was greatly pleased to meet two of his old engineers, Timothy Brady and James Gardner, the former of which is the senior locomotive engineer still in active service of more than 50 years with the Northern Pacific railroad, and other friends who were identified in the shop organization of this company, and he cheerfully surprised at the development of this beautiful city from the time that the streets of the city were blazed through the pine forests and was known as the City of Pines.

Mr. Lewis is still possessor of a vigorous manhood. He is at present supervisor of parks and received the nomination to the state legislature of Virginia at their last election.

J. E. Moene of Minneapolis is accompanying his old friend, Mr. Lewis and is likewise renewing old friendships.

TOURIST TRADE

Brainerd is alive to the advantages gained from tourist trade. Cars stop in the city and stock up with a week or month's supplies when the touring party goes to its cottage near by or to one rented.

Large quantities of gasoline, oil and other supplies and equipment are bought here. Repairs to cars and tires are made. It is only proper that Mayor F. E. Little, the Chamber of Commerce, the hotels and garages, the police department, etc., should show the stream of tourist travel consideration and attention. In line with this has been the establishment of the tourist camp on the river front near the bridge.

Soldier's Long Rest Disturbed.
The skeleton of a man clothed in the uniform of a soldier of bygone days has been unearthed from the peat at Barrock, near Thurso, Caithness, Scotland. It had been buried at a depth of three feet. The skull showed the mark of a heavy blow, but the skeleton was complete and in excellent preservation. The uniform, consisting of a small vest tunic, and a larger one, breeches, stockings and cap, all of gray flannel, showed no signs of decay. In the pocket of the tunic was a skin purse, containing sixteen coins bearing the date 1677.

BASEBALL BUNTS

Crosby, in his second game of a series with Little Falls, played Monday evening, defeated them 3 to 2. Morris pitched for Crosby and a Benidji man for Little Falls. Brainerd had quite a number of fans at the game.

Pierz won from Royaltion 11 to 6. Wadena won from Long Prairie, 12 inning game, 2 to 1.

Taylor of Benidji pitching for Little Falls, was expected to win on Monday evening when he pitched against Crosby, but lost. He recently fanned 29 Park Rapids players, but they were not of the Crosby caliber.

The Little Falls Transcript records this observation regarding Jennings as an ump: "Jennings evidently has umpired for this Crosby outfit before. He did not lose much time reefing his sails and dropping the job when they began to cry over his decisions." In the fourth inning of the Sunday game the Crosby team rode Jennings too hard says the same paper, and he left the field disgusted. Ball had to finish the game alone.

MISSING BRAINERD WOMAN IS FOUND

Mrs. Elizabeth Kappel, who disappeared from Brainerd, has been found at Little Falls. Miss Adeline Blake saw her at the American House and authorities ascertained she was the woman for whom her brother, Wendell Smith, had been searching for the past week. Mr. Smith was notified and she will be taken to his farm, located near Lenox.

"Anatomy of Melancholy."

This was written by Robert Burton (1577-1640), an ecclesiastic, a recluse, an eccentric. After 30 years of reading and study, it is said that he wrote to amuse himself, and it is an enormous medley of ideas, musical, medical, poetical, mathematical and physiological, every page garnished with Latin, Greek or French from rare and unknown authors. It is the only book which interested the famous Doctor Johnson to such an extent that he arose two hours earlier than his want in order to read it.

GENERAL DRIVE BY COLLECTORS

Delinquents in Making War Tax Returns are Being Looked up by Revenue Men in City

AMUSEMENTS, ETC. CHECKED UP

Records Examined Pertaining to Theatre, Dance and Other Admissions in Brainerd

There is under way in Brainerd a general drive by the government in checking up sales, taxes covering all luxuries and jewelry, admissions on dances and other entertainments, etc.

The collectors include P. N. Kolling of St. Cloud, C. L. Engelbert, W. Anderson and Arthur Thieden of St. Paul.

J. C. Douglas, who makes Brainerd his headquarters, is checking up the manufacturers' tax.

The first point taken up in Brainerd was the checking up of wholesale manufacturers of ice cream and with such data on hand, retail dealers are checked.

In a statement, Mr. Kolling said that all dances are subject to tax where tickets have been sold. Many dances given throughout the country have never made any returns. They should have reported to the revenue collector in Brainerd.

Owners of halls, as a rule, should collect and return the war tax on entertainments and dances given on which admissions were paid, unless exempted by certificate from the collector, in which case however, the hall owner is to keep a record of dances, etc., given, all open for the inspection of the government.

NOTICE!

All my accounts have been placed with the Brainerd Business Men's Association offices in the Opsahl block for collection, and those indebted to me will please make payment there.

Owing to my having left the city, I was obliged to adopt such a course.

The "Cheerfulness" Ingredient

Brazilla

is "Yerba Mate"

(Pronounced Eeyer-bah Mah-tay)

Yerba Mate, the "cheer-up" ingredient of Brazilla

What is the mysterious "cheerfulness" ingredient in Brazilla?

This is the question everybody has been asking. All who have tried this deliciously cooling, refreshing and invigorating drink have noticed the "kick" in Brazilla, the smile-provoking, energizing, "pep" producing effect of this surprisingly good new drink.

The answer is given above. The mysterious ingredient is no longer a mystery. It is Yerba Mate (pronounced Eeyer-bah Mah-tay).

Yerba Mate comes from Brazil and other South American countries. It is the universal drink there. Everybody in Brazil drinks Yerba Mate, the richest and the poorest. It is made from the leaves of a tree, and was discovered first by the Guarani Indians and by them introduced to the Jesuit missionaries who recognized its merits and developed the growing of the trees and curing of the leaves.

Yerba Mate is a splendid stimulant, yet it is harmless. It has no evil effects on the system. It forms no habits, and it leaves no evil after effects. It is not a drug.

In South America it has supplanted wines, beer, coffee and tea. It is sustaining and invigorating.

Rev. Dr. J. A. Zahm, Col. Roosevelt's companion in his famous South American exploration, says of it in his book "Through South America's Southland":

"Mate is the most invigorating beverage imaginable and leaves no disagreeable after effects. It has preserved South America from the debasing evils of alcoholism. Chemists and physicians who have made a special study of the effects of Mate on the human system are all loud in its praises. They recommend it both as a tonic and a stimulant. It does not cause insomnia, neither does it cause perturbation of the heart. Give a Brazilian a handful of Mate and he will work all day without food. It seems to dispel hunger and invigorate the body."

A Government bulletin on Yerba Mate describes it as "a drink that cheers but does not inebriate." That is why we call it "The Cheer-Up Drink."

It makes you happy, it makes you smile. It gives you new vigor and energy. And it is harmless. It is good for young or old.

Yerba Mate is blended in Brazilla with choice tropical fruits, spices and herbs into a drink that you will enjoy from the first sip. TRY IT.

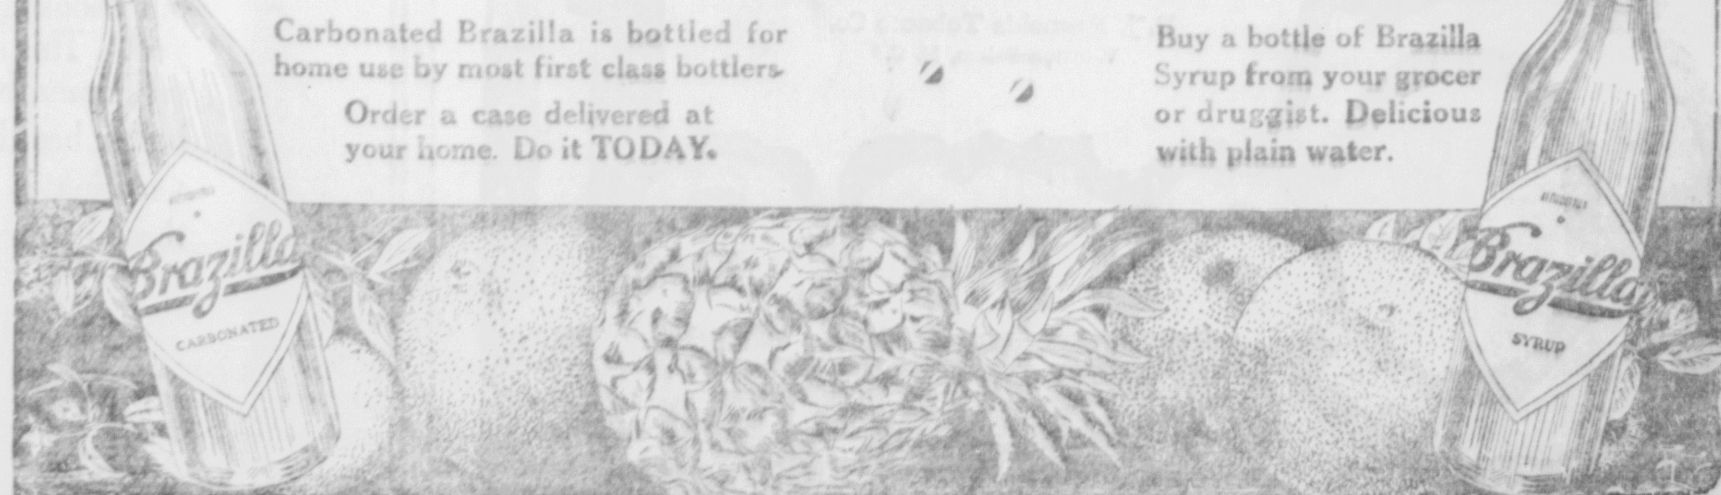

Write for our booklet "The Interesting Story About Brazilla," telling all about Yerba Mate, the "cheerfulness" ingredient." Mailed on request.

How Jack Dempsey Looks Today

WELCOME FOR CHESS PLAYER

Devotee of Game, Traveler Asserts, Will Never Lack Companionship or Entertainment Anywhere.

If you want to travel but feel unequal to learning a supply of modern languages for the purpose, then play chess. The ideal substitute for Esperanto and Latin at last has been found. If the experiences of a scholar who lately returned from long wanderings on foot through Europe may be trusted, he says that everywhere the enthusiast can find chess players. That he need never lack companionship or entertainment.

The speech of chess is more reliably universal than musical notation. You may employ it in hut and castle without danger of going astray from etiquette, and it has no pitfalls of double meaning. The traveler may enjoy his little game in the Alhambra, in the mosques of Stamboul and in London clubs. His chess men being his faithful companions, a partner was sure to turn up, of what nationality it mattered not at all.

Once, on a walking trip the whole length of the Italian peninsula, he visited the ancient Benedictine monastery of Monte Cassino, whose learned monks were all devoted to chess and set aside aspirations round in the great building for their games. Its furniture consisted merely of a chess board; players and spectators stood. The monks kept him two days as their guest in a continuous tournament, and he lost but one game after a banquet in his honor whereat old, rare vintage appeared in profusion. The scene of the play was dramatic, the contestants standing in the center of a circle of cowed monks, who followed every move in intense silence.

Another "continuous tournament" he played on horseback while journeying through Mesopotamia; another while drifting down the Tigris on a raft of goatskins to Mosul, where he tried his skill with the archbishop of Bagdad, a genial opponent. At Tabriz, metropolis of Persia, he played simultaneously against the eight strongest players of the city. The traveler attributes his success in a diplomatic mission to an act of great self-denial—he permitted a distinguished nobleman, commissioned by the shah to conduct negotiations with him, to defeat him in a series of games which preceded the contest of wits.

Moths Use "Wireless?"

Because scientists have found that though they place a female moth in a wooden pillbox, soundproof and scentproof, the male moth always will find its mate, they have been led to believe that moths make use of a system similar to wireless telegraphy. A Vapoer moth in a sound-proof box will attract the male of its species from all directions. It has been proved that the males are attracted neither by sound nor scent.

The London Daily Mail says that if experiments were conducted it undoubtedly would be shown that electro-magnetic waves of a very short length are used, as both glow worms and fireflies emit light under similar conditions, and that it is not improbable that other insects use longer and invisible waves.

Moths have antennae, which, besides acting as feelers, may be employed as transmitting and receiving aerials. The antennae of the female, who is the transmitter, differ in design from those of the male, who receives. When the male alights he swings his antennae much as an operator swings a wireless direction-finding frame to find out from what directions signals come.

Banjo Originated in India.

The modern banjo was introduced into England from America, to which country it was probably taken by the African slaves, who originally obtained the idea from India. The unmusical name "banjo" seems to have been derived from "banya," the name of a Senegambian instrument of the guitar species.

Hebe, Goddess of Youth.

Hebe, in Greek mythology, was the goddess of youth and spring. She was the personification of eternal and exuberant youth, and, until supplanted in this office by Ganymede, was cupbearer of Olympus. She was a daughter of Zeus and Hera, who gave her as wife to Hercules after his defilement, as a reward for his achievements.

North East West South

Supposing that, beginning tomorrow, all the newspapers are discontinued. What a furore the public would make. "News! News! We must have news or we will be no better off than the ancients." "All right, suppose we give them news but cut out the advertisements."

Then we would discover that politics, the doings of society, notices of fires, accidents, deaths, scandals, sports, the activities of the police and criminals add little or nothing to the real comfort and happiness of this greatest age in the world's history.

What geni are they that have crowded the last fifty years with so much of advantage to humans? They are legion in number, but not least among them is Advertising.

Our day is the greatest time the world has seen because we have more to be happy with, better things, greater variety, greater comforts gathered together from the North, East, West and South for our choosing and selection. Look about you. This is the day of better food, better homes, better clothing, better babies, better health, better business. And advertising is the instrument that makes these better things possible.

Advertising is the NEWS of all the looms, of all the furnaces, of all the laboratories, of all the shops, of all the stores, of all the world and all working for you.

Because of advertising, luxuries and necessities that once cost a king's ransom are yours at little prices. Advertising pits merchant against merchant, artisan against artisan, producer against producer, for your benefit, forcing out the best there is in everything and telling the world about it.

Read advertising. Keep abreast of today. Advertising furnishes you with facts and opportunities that you would otherwise never know.

Let's settle this right now!
